In a letter marking the tenth anniversary of the Association of Catholic Motion Picture Theater Operators of Italy, the Pope expressed the hope "that continued motion picture production be encouraged to offer to the public, especially to youth desirous of diversion, a fitting entertainment which not only may delight the mind, but form it and strengthen it further in the love of honesty, rectitude and decorum as becomes saints."

Pope John XXIII

P R E F A C E

Convinced that there exists today no means of influencing the masses more potent than the motion picture medium, Holy Mother Church has, during the last three decades, exercised a special motherly care and watchfulness over the cinema. Ideally, as a gift from God our Creator, the motion picture should be used by men solely for the good of mankind, for "the first aim of this art should be to serve truth and virtue," to use Pius XII's forthright statement in Miranda Prorsus.

In the same Encyclical letter the late Holy Father has specified the particular reasons which prompt a continuing interest on the part of the Church in motion pictures:

"Just as very great advantages can arise from the wonderful advances which have been made in our day, in technical knowledge concerning motion pictures, radio and television, so too can very great dangers.

For these new possessions and new instruments which are within almost everyone's grasp, introduce a most powerful influence into men's minds, both because they can flood them with light, raise them to nobility, adorn them with beauty, and because they can disfigure them by dimming their luster, dishonor them by a process of corruption, and make them subject to uncontrolled passions, according as the subjects presented to the senses in these shows are praiseworthy or reprehensible.

In the past century, advancing technical skill in the field of business frequently had this result: machines, which ought to serve men, when brought into use rather reduced them to a state of slavery and caused grievous harm.

Likewise today, unless the mounting development of technical skill, applied to the diffusion of pictures, sounds and ideas is subjected to the sweet yoke of the law of Christ, it can be the source of countless evils, which appear to be all the more serious, because not only material forces but also the mind are unhappily enslaved. And man's inventions are, to that extent, deprived of those advantages which in the design of God's Providence ought to be their primary purpose. . . ."

The Church has never doubted the vast power of the cinema for good but neither is She blind to the harm which this medium can do when crass commercialism replaces principle and social responsibility. To assist Her children in the choice of that which is good in this medium of entertainment and at the same time to guard them against movies which are not worthy of the rational nature of man the Church has established National Catholic film centers throughout the world. The National Legion of Decency is such a center for the American scene.

As an agency of the American Hierarchy the Legion of Decency reviews and classifies entertainment motion pictures. These classifications are not legislative but normative, for through the Legion's ratings the American Bishops desire to provide Catholics with prudent guidance in their choice of motion picture fare. Considering the nature of American motion picture exhibition which is not hedged about with reasonable safeguards for the young and impressionable, such guidance is particularly necessary as well as useful for parents and guardians.

The Legion classifies films chiefly from the traditional Judaeo-Christian viewpoint of morality and decency. Although the Legion's ratings are not formally and explicitly concerned with the artistic and esthetic values of films, the Legion recognizes that a valid moral judgment of a film cannot be made in total precision from its artistic merits or lack thereof. As such, however, the Legion's ratings represent a moral rather than an artistic evaluation of films. Exception to this policy occurs whenever the Legion publishes a positive recommendation on a film; such recommendation is made when, in the opinion of the Legion's reviewers, a film excels for artistic and moral values.

In its work of classifying films the Executive staff of the National Office of the Legion is assisted by the Motion Picture Department of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae and by a Board of Consultants composed of priests and laymen. These two groups provide the Legion staff with the competent consultative opinion of educators, student counsellors, professional motion picture critics and others.

Classification of films is made according to the following categories:

- A-I—Morally Unobjectionable for General Patronage.
- A-II—Morally Unobjectionable for Adults and Adolescents.
- A-III—Morally Unobjectionable for Adults.
- B—Morally Objectionable in Part for All.
- C—Condemned.

S. C.—A Separate Classification is given to certain films which, while not morally objectionable in themselves, require some analysis and explanation as a protection to the uninformed against wrong interpretations and false conclusions.

✠ JAMES A. McNULTY,
Bishop of Paterson,
Chairman, Bishops' Committee on Motion Pictures, Radio and Television.

Anatomy of a Murder (Col.).....	S.C.	1958-59
Observation: The clinical analysis with which the subject matter of this film (rape) is so explicitly and frankly detailed is judged to exceed the bounds of moral acceptability and propriety in a mass medium of entertainment.
Anchors Aweigh (MGM).....	A-I	1944-45
And Baby Makes Three (Columbia).....	B	1949-50
Objection: Reflects the acceptability of divorce; light treatment of marriage; suggestive dialogue.
Notice: This picture previously rated B remains in the same classification with the additional objection, "Contains dialogue offensive to religion." The objection now reads: "Reflects the acceptability of divorce; light treatment of marriage; suggestive dialogue; contains dialogue offensive to religion."
And God Created Woman (Fr.) (Kingsley).....	C	1957-58
Objection: The theme and treatment of this film, developed in an atmosphere of sensuality, dwell without relief upon suggestiveness in costuming, dialogue and situations. In the field of motion picture entertainment the extent and intensity of the objectionability of this picture constitute an open violation of Christian and traditional morality.

Baby Doll (War.) .....	C	1956-57
Objection: The subject matter of this film is morally repellent both in theme and treatment. It dwells almost without variation or relief upon carnal suggestiveness in action, dialogue and costuming. Its unmitigated emphasis on lust and the various scenes of cruelty are degrading and corruptive. As such, it is grievously offensive to Christian and traditional standards of morality and decency.

Observation: This film presents the case for the psychoprophylactic method of childbirth, which is more popularly known as "natural childbirth." This medical theme, which handled with discretion and good taste, can have significant educational value for adults and also for older adolescents. However, the subject matter itself is too sacred, private and personal for indiscriminate showing in entertainment motion picture theaters.

Objection: A film which deals with a subject most objectionable for presentation before general audiences in entertainment motion picture theaters. The film, moreover, presents a treatment of this subject in a most objectionable way. The subject is sex relations and social disease. It has been alleged in the exploitation of this film, that the "League of Decency" had expressed approval of the film. Needless to state, the impression that this allegation leaves is absolutely erroneous.

Notice: The classification of this film has been changed from C—Condemned (1947-48) to B—Morally Objectionable in Part for All. The reason for the objection is as follows: Suggestive lines and situations. Revisions made in this picture are deemed sufficient to warrant a change in classification. Since the changes appear only in prints showing in Continental United States, Alaska and Hawaii, this reclassification is applicable solely to exhibition in these places. (July 22, 1948).

Observation: The concluding words in the film imply an omnipotence for science in cleansing in time "this world of its evils, its ignorance, its poverty, diseases, wars and heartaches." Science can do much to alleviate physical evil and will, God willing, do more. All the evils in the world, however, are not material evils. There are moral evils. Religion has its God-given role in combatting evil in the world.

Observation: In order to clarify the position of the Legion of Decency in regard to the film "Mission to Moscow" it should be noted that the picture did not receive "Unobjectionable for General Patronage" rating. The Legion, acting within the scope of its mandate of decency, gave the film the mature audience rating. Concurrent with this rating the following separate notation was released: "This film represents the personal observations and opinions of ex-Ambassador Joseph E. Davies as expressed in his book, Mission to Moscow , upon which the film is based." For further clarification the Legion now adds the following sentence to the above notation: "The film in its sympathetic portrayal of the governing regime in Russia makes no reference to the anti-religious philosophy and policy of said regime."

Objection: The film tends to present as ethically justifiable the deliberate killing of doctors, who, though the enemy doctors in the film are depicted as bearing arms, by international conventions are regarded as non-combatants. The enemy doctors, presumably from the action of the film guilty of murder, are summarily killed without any judicial process, when they could have been taken prisoners and brought for trial to the rear, which rear, subsequent action of the film indicates to be still within the control of the guerrillas. The film, in one sequence, beyond a proper appeal to patriotism and the defense of homeland, presents an appeal to the revenge motive.

Observation: This entertainment film, noble, sensitive, reverent and inspiring in its production, is a theologically sound and profound analysis of the essential meaning of a religious vocation through the story of a person who objectively lacked a fundamental qualification for an authentic religious calling. If the film fails to capture the full meaning of religious life in terms of its spiritual joy and all-pervading charity, this must be attributed to the inherent limitations of a visual art.

The classification of this film has been changed from C—Condemned (1943-1949) to B—Morally Objectionable in Part for All. The reason for the objection is as follows: Although revisions have been made in this film, it still presents immodest costuming and suggestive situations. The producer has pledged that all prints of this subject hereafter presented for public exhibition in the United States shall contain the changes provided in the revised version.

Son of Sinbad (Howard Hughes—RKO).....	C	1954-55
Objection: This film, in its character and treatment, is a serious affront to Christian and traditional standards of morality and decency because of its blatant and continuing violation of the virtue of purity. Throughout, it contains grossly salacious dances and indecent costuming. This picture is a challenge to decent standards of theatrical entertainment and as an incitement to juvenile delinquency, it is especially dangerous to the moral welfare of youth.

The highly propagandistic nature of this controversial film (book burning, anti-Communism, civil liberties) offers a warped, oversimplified and strongly emotional solution to a complex problem of American life. Its specious arguments tend seriously to be misleading and misrepresentative by reason of an inept and distorted presentation.

Note: A Separate Classification is given to certain films which, while not morally offensive require some analysis and explanation as a protection to the uninformed against wrong interpretations and false conclusions.

Third Sex (Ger.) (D. & F. Dist.).....	C	1958-59
Objection: The highly questionable subject matter of this film, dealing as it does with perversion, is judged to be morally dangerous and unacceptable in a mass entertainment medium. Furthermore, the thesis is proposed in such a way as to elicit sympathy for an immoral solution to a domestic and social problem.
Third Time Lucky (British) (Pentagon Pictures Inc.).....	B	1950-51
Objection: Tends to condone immoral actions.

This Side of the Law (Warners).....	A-II	1949-50
This Thing Called Love (Revised Version) (Columbia).....	B	1940-41
Objection: The treatment of the plot concentrates throughout the greater portion of the film upon a marriage situation which as screen material is highly suggestive and objectionable. The film, moreover, reflects ideas contrary to the Christian concept of marriage.
Notation: The many and important cuts which were made in the original version of the film have been deemed sufficient to warrant a change in classification from "C"—Condemned (1940-41) to "B"—Partly Objectionable. The cut version of the film has been rated as Partly Objectionable because of the original theme—emphasis on which, however, has been considerably lessened.

Objection: The sympathetic delineation of one of the characters and her identification as an apostle of social progress lend authority and acceptability to her indictment of a large family.
Observation: A minister of religion is depicted as opposed to scientific progress. In the film's presentation of its message of courage and optimism, there are traces of deism and naturalism whereby the impressions are gathered that God is a being far from this struggling world, and that man by himself can make the better world of the future.

Objection: This film is a collection of scenes from material produced in Mexico by the Communist director, S. M. Eisenstein. Its import together with accompanying narration is anti-Religious, anti-Christian and historically false. It constitutes, in the main, an ideological perversion of the subject to purposes of Marxian Communism.

* The comparative statistics of the Legion of Decency date from February, 1936. First period covers films reviewed from February, 1936 to November, 1937. From 1938 through 1950 periods are based on films reviewed from November to November.

** This period covers films reviewed from November, 1950 to October, 1951.

*** As of 1952 periods run from October to October.

† This period covers films reviewed from October, 1957 through November, 1957.

‡ This period covers films reviewed from December, 1957 to October, 1958 and includes films in the new A-III category.

† One film (.30%) was given a "Separate Classification."

In appraising the moral status and trend of motion pictures, statistics alone do not provide adequate and reliable measurement. Statistics should be considered in conjunction with other factors such as the kind and amount of objectionableness in a film rated in any given objectionable or condemned category. The evaluation of the situation must be based on qualitative and quantitative considerations as well as the popularity potentiality of the subject, together with its thematic character.
